Award of a Reservoir Characterisation project with a total value of $0.7 million

Rock Solid Images plc (AIM: RSI) announced today that the Company has been chosen to provide rock physics-driven reservoir property inversion services to a leading exploration company, in the offshore transform margin of West Africa. The value of the project exceeds $0.7 million and will be completed by mid-year.

Richard Cooper, Chief Executive Officer of RSI, said:

“We are delighted that a repeat client continues to recognise the value that RSI’s technical services adds to their ongoing E&P successes in the transform margin of West Africa. With a regional knowledge based on rock physics modeling of more than 190 wells and a comprehensive analysis of 40,000 km² of seismic data across the entirety of the West African Transform Margin and the conjugate margin of South America, RSI is uniquely positioned to provide alternative technical insights to augment our client’s work.”
