RSI Continues Expansion in Europe

RSI is pleased to announce the continued expansion of its European presence through the appointment of Dr. James Tomlinson to the role of General Manager EAME and the opening of a London office.

James has over 10 years' experience of geophysical services with roles ranging from technical services to business development and regional management. The London office and increased presence in Europe will assist RSI provide more immediate and deeper support their European client base and help them expand their operations in the region.

Anthony Greer, RSI's COO commented: "With a significant portion of RSI's work now coming from Europe, we're delighted that James has taken on the regional General Manager role and the challenge to grow the European technical team to further improve our service and support to our clients locally. James' extensive technical and commercial experience is a perfect match for RSI's development in Europe."
